Glades Livestock Market Among Tops In The S. E. And Largest In Florida

Three Years Constant Growth
Topped By Last Eight Weeks Activity

With a two months sustained average of more than 1000 head per week, totalling $233, and a three year record of each month or period exceeding that corresponding month or period for the previous year, the Glades Livestock Market has no contender for "first" in Florida, and one (possibly two) in the Southeast for the same record.

During the bowling of fast dropping prices to beef the local market has continued to increase its weekly sales, with a strong to strengthening market. There has been a consistent two to four cents margin between the average price of beef and that of grass fat steers. The heart of the cattle industry, financially—a 15 to 20% margin between the purchase price and the selling price—has persisted since the readjustment period in the past year.

Some fifty to sixty buyers is the rule now-days with the four corners of the Florida industry represented. Buyers from Jacksonville as a regular program, buyers from Ocala, and packers from Tampa looking for supplies with Miami generously represented, has maintained a supply of buyers with orders in their pockets and money in the bank, ready to be spent.

In recent months near an average of 70% for slaughter has been evidenced. A Miami packer who buys regularly at the local market entertained his customers and friends at a barbecue Sunday afternoon, when the prize meat displayed and fed to the visitors was: (1) On the hoof, steers from Stein's Ranch; (2) Hanging in the cooler, good to prime carcasses, steers from Stein's Ranch; (3) Butchered, "the finest ever," steers from Stein's Ranch. "Western meat" dearly beloved by all because the meat salesman found that into the storekeeper as well as the user is still "western meat," west of Twenty-Mile Bend.

Paris is not the only place in the world where a meat mule can cut and ethically drop the feminine figure, nor does "western" connote the origin of federal grades of good and prime in a porterhouse or T-bone west of the Appalachians, or even the Swanee, nor the Kisminee.

Opened on May 12th of '50, with faith, enthusiasm, and a few pens as physical assets, in an area just recently converted to beef production, the Glades Livestock Market sold 9,763 head of animals during that year. In '51 13,740 were sold as against more than 15,000 in the cattle business for recreational and tax purposes.

In 1952 some 23,320 head were sold.

Veterinary Public Health Growing In Importance To Florida Says Our County Veterinarian Dr. D. L. Lichty

"The importance of veterinary public health is indicated in the fact that during 1950 the State of Ohio suffered a loss of $77,000,000 from disease among its livestock," Dr. Wright L. Lichty told Rotarians Friday. This, coupled with the fact that only $11,000,000 is spent annually in the U. S. in veterinary research," continued the doctor.

Celery Brings $4 Promises Good Until Late June

The roasting ear crop—sweet corn to market about ended for the 1953 spring season, and is going out with a bang after a spotted market throughout the current season.

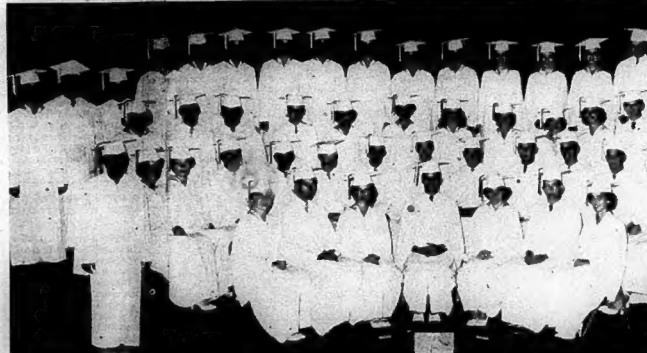

Celery will be harvested in the Glades thru June, and according to advisers will still bring good prices up to the end of the local harvest. A number of farmers' who had gaping financial holes as result of the year's work are rapidly filling them with the celery checks.

Except for the canning plant, the season is being wound up, plans for another year are in the making.

Mission Organized By Episcopopians

The Rt. Rev. Henry I. Louttit, D.D., recognizing the remarkable growth among Episcopopians in Belle Glade gave his permission last week for the organizing of a mission in this city.

For the past ten years Belle Glade Episcopopians have been to drive either to Pahokee or to Clewiston for services. Seeing the desire for a church here the Rev. Father Petrie began holding Sunday night meetings in members homes last December. The movement came to a head on May 10 when at a covered dish supper on the lawn of Dr. and Mrs. G. R. Townsend twenty families signed a petition to the bishop.

Having received the bishop's approval for a mission the group had a business session last Sunday night at the home of E. M. Lively, where the following were elected to serve as the first vestry: Senior Warden, G. R. Townsend, Junior Warden, Don Parker; Treasurer, E. M. Lively; Secretary, Grant Averill. The other members of the vestry are Douglas Matthews and Emmett Roberts.

As of July 1, the Church of the Holy Nativity in Pahokee will be linked with the Church of Our Saviour in Okeechobee and placed in charge of a dean just from the seminary.

Father Petrie will go to Pahokee on Sunday next to celebrate the Holy Eucharist and to administer the Holy Communion. When the dean is ordained to the priesthood Father Petrie's duties in Pahokee will come to an end and he will give more time to Belle Glade. He will continue to live in Clewiston which built a new rectory last summer.

Things are fine with me, putting in long hours, but time passes quickly. When not in Port we operate in the Sea of Japan, several miles off Wensan, Korea. We go to Hong Kong the middle of next month for a seven day period. I'm looking forward to that.

"TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY"

By Russell Key

A good many years ago when I was a barefoot boy with a hoe, etc., I used to get a thrill out of watching the neighbors fertilize their lawns, and no matter how fast the hoe went it wasn't fast enough to suit me. Like most youngsters of my day I had to do some yard work on my own efforts for such purchasing money as I acquired and mowing lawns was my major occupation. Being a so-called individual, the only thing I was ever able to push around with any degree of success was a lawn mower.

I used to knock down a dollar or so a week giving green grass a hair cut after school and on Saturdays and was the proud possessor of one of the first ballbearing lawn mowers ever produced, which I bought out of my earnings. My father was a frugal man and, while he had no objection to my going in business for myself, he figured it was up to me to provide my own working tool.

As I grew older and more sideways than an owl, the business of mowing lawns was entirely lost its appeal. As a youngster, I used to wonder why anyone was dumb enough to pay someone else to mow a lawn when he could do it himself and save from 50c to $1.00, but as the years slipped me by, the early vim and vitality and the value of the dollar steadily decreased. I learned to do it myself.

A few years ago some chap with a weak back or something came up with the power lawn mower. Then the country broke out in a rash of "em' till today it is as hard to find a yard without one as it is to find a family without a radio.

With modern day kids very indifferent to the business of lawn-mowing as a profession and with so-called yard men almost as hard to get along with as they are to pay, I invested in one of those beautiful little green and white trinkets, and while the growth of grass is still annoying I find I can guide this mechanical mow around without too much discomfort.

But mowing a lawn is only half the problem. At best, the finest mechanical lawn mower can't do any more than "take a little off the top." In order to finish the job and make a lawn look half way respectable you have to trim the edges and around the trees and flower beds. This has gripped me just as hard for I don't like squatting down with a pair of clippers or wrestling with an edger.

Evidently some chemist in the laboratories of the United States Rubber Company acquired the same aversion to edging lawns that I've had for so many years.

I was on a peddle run the other day that took me from Jacksonville to my terminal at Jacksonville. I had to make some truck detours over roads that I'm ashamed to admit exist in Florida.

"It's a damned shame," I told myself when I got home. "That's the money Florida's motorists and the truckers pay out in taxes in Florida. But Florida. It just isn't worth it."

"Take it easy," Mary said. "You're not a politician."

"That I know," I said. "But I do ever stop to think that taxes levied on motor vehicles in Florida during 1952 totaled nearly $200,000,000. The trucking industry alone paid nearly

To those who fought in FREEDOM'S NAME

... we make this pledge! That each of us, in our own way, will continue to protect our Freedom... to uphold the American ideals they fought and died for.

GLADES MARKET IS (Continued from Page 1) set thru the local market, as some thought the scramble to "get out" grew noisier.

Now, comes along "32" - five months of it - with the jittery market national, and the Glades Market sells 14,500 head, with more buyers from packers and a price that allows that necessary margin between what we give and what we take.

An industry has been born amid artificial stimulants and enthusiasm, only to lose its fast thinking quarterback and a center College team in the cattle industry of the United States.

"Her soil is her fortune" - as her men appreciate it. Sales of Monday, May 25, 1953 1320 Cattle - $77,043.02. Bulls, 28; Steers, 640; Cows, 125; Calves, 350; Yearlings, 114; Hfvs., 54.

Stock - Steers - Med 11.75-14.50; Cull 8.50-12.25; Hf 7.50-9.25. Heifers - C 8.50-10.50; Med 11.75-14.50; Cull 8.50-10.50.

Cows - Inf. 5.00-8.50. We had a good run with steady prices. Prices were strong on unusually good calves. 72 percent went to slaughter; this week.

SPECIAL - Though we sold over 100 cwt. per hour, our sale lasted 'til 1:45 A. M. For your benefit and with your cooperation, we can cut several hours' selling time off of a large sale.

We have built a cutting pen for group grading cattle before the sale starts. An experienced cattleman will grade and group your cattle and you can approve the grouping.

Cattle brought in for grouping before 11:00 A. M. will be sold early in the sale.

We have adopted a system which has proven highly successful in market selling large numbers of cattle and which is highly favored by packer buyers.

VETERINARY PUBLIC (Continued from Page 1) virile and will pay dormant for years, unless positive measures are taken to destroy them. Bones which are virus infected, even when boiled throw off the germs during the process of boiling. A pot containing infected bones boiled in a room will throw off enough to contaminate everything in the room unless care is taken.

"Bangs Disease, is another threat to our cattle industry, that must be watched and eliminated against."

Internal parasites in cattle and external parasites in poultry were pointed out as the cause of many millions in losses. "The diagnostic Laboratory now proposed in a bill in Tallahassee is a step forward and is sorely needed by the cattle and poultry industry in Florida," said the Doctor.

U. W. Malcolm was inducted into Rotary by Dr. Tommy Forester.

NINTH BIRTHDAY IS CELEBRATED BY OES

Ethically, they will be found among the outstanding in the next several years: citizenship, leadership, social attainment, spiritual comfort and community building will find the class of '33 well represented.

CINEMATIC CHATTER

By Malcolm Miller

Hello everybody! Roalind Russell not only likes to laugh but she likes to hear others laugh. Although she has established herself as one of the screen's better dramatic actresses and was nominated for the Academy Award for a serious portrayal she is most happy in comedy. She is a very adaptable person and is as friendly and at ease with the labor crew on a set as with the social set at a Washington soiree. She has very little sympathy for people who move around, and she believes that no one is given a harder time than it actually is to carry it off. They will only do something about it. Let's settle your problems rule you and try to rule them instead," she says.

Despite her numerous "Career Women" portrayals and her position on the list of Ten Best Dressed American Women, she likes outdoor sports and is a better-than-average golfer, a good tennis player and a fine swimmer. As a child she played basketball, and in her teens was an instructor of horse back riding. She has a distinct flare for interior decoration and "did" the two-story French provincial home in which she lives in Beverly Hills with her husband and nine-year-old son, Lance. She keeps informed on world affairs and discusses them intelligently. During World War II she was active on fifteen committees that were engaged in patriotic endeavors. Among her numerous welfare interests today is the Sister Kennedy Foundation, of which she is national women's chairman of its fund raising branch. She likes to be up and doing and when not at work on a picture usually rises at seven a.m. She carries on a voluminous correspondence and devotes much of her spare time between scenes to letter writing. See you at the movies... Mal.

GSC PLAN TEAM IN OKEECHOBEE HODDO

The Glades Saddle Club met Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the City Hall. There was an open discussion on plans to have at least one team to compete in the Okeechobee Hoddo to be held July 4.

Until now no effort has been made to have an organized group represent the Glades area in a rodeo.

The Glades Saddle Club is located on the Schleicher Ranch in Chosen. Every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be rodeo practice held under the direction of an experienced and capable person elected by the club to be in charge and last the afternoon events.

Mr. Don Hillier was standing for newly elected president, Mrs. Shirley, who was unable to attend on account of illness.

Guests attending from the Belle Glade Garden Club were: Mrs. Ivan Van Horn, District director; Mrs. Louisa Jones, president; Mrs. Lonnie Warren, president-elect; Mrs. C. J. Asper, Mrs. Thomas Bregger, Mrs. J. F. Spence, Mrs. John Gledhill, Mrs. Irvin Zumpf, Mrs. J. F. Halbrook, Mrs. Elizabeth Paff, Mrs. Della Altman, Mrs. Paul Kirchman and Mrs. Donald Kirchman. Mrs. H. J. Hovington was a guest.

through February '53 was submitted recently to members of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission by John F. DeQuine, Chief Fisheries Biologist of the Agency.

Assisting DeQuine in the compilation of the report were Barry O. Freeman, William M. McLane, Jack A. Deane, and E. T. Heinen, fish management supervisors of Lakes Harris, Reedy, George, Crescent, Okechobee and Reedy. All biologists concerned in the report. Follows is a short breakdown on the report:

As outlined, the major objectives of the controlled seining program are to determine whether bass populations and sportfishing catch can be increased by reducing adult pan and rough fish, to increase growth rates of fish, to obtain biological information leading to improved sport fishing, and to permit the harvest of an annual crop of food fish, without detriment to sport fishing.

A total of 5,993,898 pounds of fish were taken by the seines. Over one million pounds of bass and pickers were returned alive, while approximately 3.4 million pounds of panfish, 900,000 pounds of catfish, and more than 3 million pounds of "rough" fish were removed from the six lakes. Almost 185,000 pounds of turtles were also netted.

Bass and crappie fishing showed improvement in all lakes where "statistically valid" records of sport fishing catches were obtained during the period of seining. Bream fishing success varied in the different lakes, but, in no lake did it decline. The report refrains from stating categorically that seining was responsible for the improved sport fishing, although DeQuine has said that the first year's work looks "encouraging" and notes that at least two more years are necessary to evaluate the program. The total catch by sportmen in Lake Eustis was calculated at 10,081 pounds of bass, 27,674 pounds of crappie, and 8,146 pounds of bream for an 11 month period.

Eleven months fishing in Lake Harris yielded a calculated 32,985 pounds of bass, 76,860 pounds of crappie, and 20,733 pounds of bream to the angler. The total catch from Lake George was calculated at 5,543 pounds of bass, 48 pounds of crappie, and 1,495 pounds of bream from December thru February. Sport fishermen in Lakes Eustis and Harris caught one-sixth more pounds of crappie than were caught in the seines in the eleven month period. In general, fish population studies showed an increase in the abundance and status of bass in all lakes except Okechobee, where bass stocks followed seasonal trends noticed in that lake during previous surveys. Adult crappie were most abundant in the early winter, while adult bream were most plentiful during the spring and summer season.

Bluegills in Lake Reedy showed as much as 78 percent gain in weight during nine months of seining, a fact which the biologists feel may be due to the increase in the food supply brought about by thinning out competing fish. The most important rough fish—carp and gizzard shad—were reduced in Lakes Harris and Eustis over the same period the previous year, and were not found abundant in Lakes Crescent, George, and Reedy.

Other investigations were conducted concerning the food preferences, age and growth rates, reproduction, movement, and other habits of fish. Gizzard shad in Lake Harris were found to be eating large quantities of "blind mosquito" larvae, a food used extensively by bluegill, shiner, cracker, and crappie. Most pan fish netted were two or more years old. Reproduction and survival of bass appeared more successful in Lake Reedy in 1953 than it had been the previous spring.

Approximately 80 percent of the tagged bass were taken by hook and line on seines within a five mile radius of the location of release. Sport fishermen recaptured 4 percent of the bass tagged in Lake Eustis, 9.5 percent in Lake George, 7.8 percent in Lake Harris and 13 percent in Lake Reedy. Studies of the small fish used as bass food are also underway. Experimental "brush piles" in Lakes Eustis and Harris had not proven successful in improving fishing for panfish.

The report also gives some detailed statistics on the economics of the commercial catches. The wholesale value of all fishery products from the controlled seining program is listed as $1,183,496.58. Panfish accounted for $890,166.68 of this total, while catfish and mullet were valued at $189,531.83. Other fish and turtles sold were worth $188,797.73. Five hundred and twelve persons were employed by the fishing industry in connection with the program, while sixty-six individual state employees were used full and part time.

The costs of supervising and conducting the program amounted to $144,000 from the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. Poundage fees collected from the commercial fishermen by the Commission were $194,149.38, giving the agency a profit of $99,339.27 through the end of February.

The report concluded that no increase in the amount of fish taken from the experimental lakes by sport or commercial fishermen was evident, that the abundance and catch of bass had generally improved, that further time was needed to determine whether a substantial decrease in rough fish would occur, and that the program was economically beneficial to the State. It also recognized that "opposition to the method by which the program was conducted" by contracting with private commercial fishermen persists in certain groups, "who feel it should be a State enterprise."

It includes recommendations for the continuation of the permanent program, for more effort to inform the people of the state about it, for additional research on the catch of sport fishermen in comparable areas where there is no seining and for more effort to find an economical use for "millions of pounds of rough fish."

Copies of the complete 31-page report are available from the Tallahassee office of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

From Washington, D.C. May 28, 1953

WASHINGTON - Although there have been efforts to railroad it through the Congress, a bill to bring into the Union additional states is being given a quiet and started—second look by the Senate Committee of which I am a member. Stateshood, with all it implies is most appealing. We can agree that self-government is a part of the American way of life, and that equal rights are due all citizens, regardless of where they live. But the step of creating states out of territories far removed from our shores populated by people with different national background, with characteristics and traditions dissimilar to ours, is a serious one. Once taken, this step can never be retraced. Once created, a state belongs to the Union and the Union belongs to it. If it is a mistake, we cannot correct it.

For these, and many other reasons, I am greatly encouraged by our decision in the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee to hold hearings on the Hawaii and Alaska statehood bills. It could be that, after all the facts are developed, the Congress will decide that it will be better to make Hawaii a county of California, Alaska a county of Washington state.

Neuroses Off the Cuff - By making quick flights, I have spent five of the past six weeks visiting and speaking in Florida and am cheered to the hilt by the fact that many of the people here are feeling better. I have been told that some feelings were ruffled by a case newspaperman with whom I had talked quite a while, as saying a majority of Floridians came to our state from other parts of the country. The Census Bureau reported officially by the other day that 1,569,205 Floridians, or 57 percent of our population, were not native born (I guess the important fact is that they are getting a genuine welcome and are staying). I am proud of the results finally being produced by the fight I started several months ago to break the logjam in the Federal Communications Commission which has been depriving 80 percent of the people of the United States of television service.

With action already taken by the Senate to provide additional hearing examinations, FCC now can clear its dockets. I have already written the FCC to change its system of priorities to bring up immediately cases from such cities as Miami, Jacksonville, Orlando, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Denver.

VETERANS' INFORMATION AND SERVICE By Melvyn T. Dixon, State Service Officer PUBLIC LAW 10 TRAINING FOR DISABLED VETERANS. Now, disabled Korean veterans, as well as WW II veterans, are entitled to education and training under Public Law 16. Eligibility requirements are: (1) active service on or after September 16, 1940, and prior to Jan. 1, 1948; or (2) active service on or after Jan. 1, 1947 for WW II veterans; and on or after Jan. 1, 1950 for Korean veterans. (3) Discharge or release from service under conditions other than dishonorable. (4) Compensable disability (10% or more) or receipt of disability retirement pay for a condition which was incurred in, or aggravated by active service. (4) Need for vocational rehabilitation to restore loss of earning power resulting from the service-connected disability. The education or training includes college, on the job training, on the farm training, or trade schools.

A course of training or education may not exceed a four-year maximum, however, the length of the course depends upon the amount of education or training necessary to rehabilitate the veteran - his length of active service in the armed forces is not a factor in computing the amount of training. Expenses for the training are paid for by the VA. This includes tuition, books, supplies, equipment and other necessary incidentals.

Subsistence allowance is provided during the period of training and for two months thereafter, in addition to compensation for disability. Veterans with less than 30% disability, if single, will receive $105. If married, Veterans with 30% or more disability, if single, will receive $115, if married $135.

MARINES HAVE THE SITUATION IN HAND

With the First Marine Aircraft Wing in Korea — Stopping a ten-ton object traveling 160 miles per hour takes plenty of "know-how."

The problem of how to stop a crippled jet aircraft on only a mile- and-a-half landing strip was recently solved with "home-made" equipment at a forward air base here.

If a plane can't be stopped short of the end of the runway it means almost certain loss of the plane and perhaps a pilot. So, when a jet has its brakes or flaps shot away on a strike against the Communists in North Korea, the crash crew from Marine Aircraft Group 33, crippled "Skyraider" was built, has its six tons of special gear ready.

The arresting gear consists of a wire stretched across the runway with 500 feet of salvaged anchor chain attached to both ends. A jet hitting the device at 160 miles per hour can be brought to a stop in about 2,500 feet, with no damage to the plane.

The pilot of the disabled plane contributes to the stop by dropping the tail hook normally used for landing on aircraft carriers. The hook catches the wire and is stopped. All Marine planes are equipped for carrier operation.

Recently the device was credited with saving its first propeller driven plane when a crippled "Skyraider" was built, has its six tons of special gear

THE CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY OF FLORIDA Jacksonville, Florida

Religious training is one of the most important projects on the program of The Children's Home Society of Florida. All of the children cared for by the Society attend Sunday School and Church regularly, and have religious training in the Society's four receiving homes. In selecting permanent adoptive homes for them, great care is exercised by the experienced casework staff to choose only homes where religion is a vital part of daily living.

The Society is expanding every year and contributions are urgently needed. Donations of food and clothing also are solicited and all such contributions should be forwarded to 1649 Osceola Street, Jacksonville 4, Florida.

RED MOUNTS OFFICE GOING TO COUNTRY

The Palm Beach County Commission at its meeting June 8, will consider land sites for location of a suburban headquarters for the county Agricultural Department.

The board this week reviewed plans for moving the office of County Agent M. U. Mounts out of the court house and into a spot where this agency would be more accessible to the people it serves.

Submitted location — 40 acre tract one half mile north of Four Points on Military Trail which Mounts said would be satisfactory. The county agent said he had discussed moving the headquarters with farmers in the county and that none of them objected to the Military Trail location.

However, the commission voted to wait another two weeks before taking any final action and in the meantime the board asked that anyone with property for sale along Military Trail or State Road 80 that would be suitable for the headquarters site, to submit their proposals as soon as possible. The board also voted to have the north Military Trail property appraised.

CINAMATIC CHATTER

By Malcolm Miller

Hell, every-day. A mid-day auto ride down New York's Broadway provided Rosemary Clooney with her "thrill of a life time." It happened a few years ago, six weeks after the honey-toned blonde singer recorded the famous duet, "Come On-A My House." Now one of Hollywood's brightest stars, Rosemary never tires of recalling it. Right after the recording sessions, Rosemary left New York to fill an engagement in Miami. "Come On-A My House" was a song she recorded under protest, relucant at last only because of the vicious arguments and tricky lyrics concocted by William Saroyan and Ross Bagdasarian. While working in the Miami night-club, she all of a sudden remembered the ever made the recording. Rosemary returned to New York the day "Come On-A My House" was released to the record shops. "There wasn't any ticket tape or crowds lining the curbs, but I felt as though I was receiving a hero's welcome. Every record shop I passed had a loudspeaker rigged up above the street and each one was blaring "Come On-A My House." I heard my voice over and over again every block I travelled. If I had been traveling in a convertible, I'd have put the top down and sat on the juvenile a competent driver before he goes on the highway. Transfer of publication of Man and the Motor Car was announced by the parent group through the Department of Public Safety. Director H. N. Kirkman said, "The Motor Car will continue publication of the original book and supplement it with five other special features in driver training. Those will include driver education manuals for administrators, class room instruction, practice driving, construction and use of driver testing devices and standard test in driver education.
